On about 25 February 1955 a new ship put into the Peenewerft (shipyard) in Wolgast. This ship, which was allegedly built by the former Oderwerke shipyard in Stettin, seemed to be 95 percent complete, and it was believed that she was scheduled to be completed at the Peenewerft. She carried no flag or name, nor was any armament observed on her. She had a Soviet naval crew. She was about 80 meters long, had two masts, one smokestack amidships and resembled the BRUCHT-type vessels, although she was larger and had a higher freeboard.
